Explore

- Check out our joke books on Cloudlibrary, hoopla and in our libraries!
- There are so many silly holidays! Like “International Joke Day”, or “Take Your Houseplant for a Walk Day.” Look up other silly holidays, and then make your own!
- Check out a sill book.

Write

- Write out your own mad libs story and give it to a friend to fill in!
- Tongue twisters are sentences that have words in them that either start with the same letter or sound a lot alike, and are typically hard to say. For example: “Sally sells seashells by the seashore.” Make up your own silly tongue twister and try to have a friend read it as fast as they can without messing up.
- Where do you think the term “silly goose” came from? Make a funny short story on how the term came to be.

Create

- Using any object from your home, create a fake commercial for that object. Here's the catch: the object you choose has to be advertised for something different than its usual use. For example, a bowl as the newest hat trend. Be as silly as possible! Show a friend or family member!
- Make a "chin face". Lay upside down and pretend your chin is your nose and your upside mouth is your normal mouth. Or you can draw/make your own eyes and attach them to your chin. Add yarn or any other item you want to your chin to make it look like an actual face. Record yourself doing something silly!
- Create your own fashion show by wearing clothes in different ways! Put your socks on your hands, put a shirt on your legs, whatever will make you laugh! Then pretend to walk down a runway in a funny way. Have family members and friends participate!
